DEFENDANT'S ANSWER &
COUNTERCLAIM

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. Defendant Keith A. Dettwiler (“Dettwiler” or Defendant”), as the Executor of the estate of Donald L. Heck (“Don Heck”), admits only that he has exercised Don Heck’s termination rights under the United States Copyright Act (the “1976 Act”) by serving notices of termination on plaintiff Marvel Characters, Inc. (“MCI” or “Plaintiff”) regarding comic book characters and stories created or co-created by Don Heck, and that MCI has brought this civil action for declaratory relief as set forth in its Complaint, but Defendant otherwise denies the allegations in paragraph 1.

2. Defendant admits only that the district court in Marvel Worldwide, Inc. v. Kirby, granted Marvel Worldwide, Inc. summary judgment against the statutory heirs of Jack Kirby, 777 F. Supp. 2d 720 (S.D.N.Y. 2011), aff’d in part, 726 F.3d 119 (2d Cir. 2013), and to the extent relevant, if any, respectfully refers the Court to these decisions for their contents, but Defendant otherwise denies the allegations in paragraph 2.

3. Defendant respectfully refers the Court to In re Marvel Entertainment Grp., 254 B.R. 817 (D. Del. 2000) for its contents, to the extent relevant, if any, but Defendant otherwise denies the allegations in paragraph 3.

4. Defendant admits only that that MCI has brought this civil action for declaratory relief pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2201, as set forth in its Complaint, but Defendant otherwise denies the allegations in paragraph 4.

PARTIES

5. Defendant lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in paragraph 5, and on that basis denies the same.

6. Admitted.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

7. Defendant admits only that Plaintiff purports to bring an action for declaratory relief under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201, et seq., and under the 1976 Act, 17 U.S.C. §§ 101, et seq.

Paragraph 7 otherwise contains conclusions of law as to which no responsive pleading is required.

8. Defendant admits only that Dettwiler holds the statutory termination rights of Don Heck under the 1976 Act. Paragraph 8 otherwise contains conclusions of law as to which no responsive pleading is required.

9. Defendant admits that Heck's estate is domiciled in New York. Defendant lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the other factual allegations contained in Paragraph 9, and on that basis denies the same. Paragraph 9 otherwise contains conclusions of law as to which no responsive pleading is required.

14. Defendant lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations contained in paragraph 14 and on that basis denies the same. Defendant respectfully refers the Court to all documents referred to in paragraph 14 for evidence of the contents thereof.

15. Defendant admits that between approximately June 4 and July 2, 2021, Dettwiler, as the Executor of the estate of Don Heck, duly served three notices of termination on MCI and related entities, pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 304 (c) and the regulations promulgated thereunder. Defendant otherwise respectfully refers the Court to the documents referred to in paragraph 15 for evidence of the contents thereof.

16. Defendant admits the allegations in paragraph 16 only to the extent such allegations accurately reflect the contents of documents, and respectfully refers the Court to such documents for evidence of the contents thereof.

17. Defendant admits the allegations in paragraph 17 only to the extent such allegations accurately reflect the contents of documents, and respectfully refers the Court to such documents for evidence of the contents thereof.

18. Admitted.

COUNT I: ACTION FOR DECLARATORY RELIEF

[As to the Validity of All Notices]

27. Defendant lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the factual allegations contained in paragraph 27, and on that basis denies the same.

28. Defendant lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the factual allegations contained in paragraph 28, and on that basis denies the same. Paragraph 28 otherwise contains conclusions of law as to which no responsive pleading is required.

29. Defendant denies the allegations contained in paragraph 29, except admits that MCI purports to seek a declaratory judgment pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2201.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

A. With respect to the relief requested in paragraph A. of the Prayer for Relief, Defendant specifically and generally denies that MCI is entitled to any of the relief requested in said paragraph.

B. With respect to the relief requested in paragraph B. of the Prayer for Relief, Defendant specifically and generally denies that MCI is entitled to any of the relief requested in said paragraph.

C. With respect to the relief requested in paragraph C. of the Prayer for Relief, Defendant specifically and generally denies that MCI is entitled to any of the relief requested in said paragraph.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

Defendant hereby additionally alleges the following as affirmative defenses:

FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Failure to State a Claim)

1. The Complaint fails to state a claim upon which the relief sought or any relief could be granted.

SECOND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Laches)

2. Plaintiff's claims are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of laches.

THIRD AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Unclean Hands)

3. Plaintiff's claims are barred, in whole or in part, by the equitable doctrine of unclean hands.

FOURTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Unjust Enrichment)

4. The Complaint and each purported claim therein is barred, in whole or in part, by the equitable doctrine of unjust enrichment.

FIFTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Claim Preclusion)

5. The Complaint and each purported claim therein is barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of res judicata or claim preclusion.

SIXTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Issue Preclusion)

6. The Complaint and each purported claim therein is barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of collateral estoppel or issue preclusion.

SEVENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Duress)

7. Plaintiff's claims are barred, in whole or in part, by the fact that any alleged contract between the parties or their respective predecessors-in-interest is unenforceable and/or void because of duress.

EIGHTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Statute of Frauds)

8. Plaintiff's claims are barred, in whole or in part, by the fact that any alleged contract between the parties or their respective predecessors-in-interest is unenforceable and/or void because of the Statute of Frauds.

NINTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Failure of Consideration)

9. Plaintiff's claims are barred, in whole or in part, by the fact that any alleged contract between the parties or their respective predecessors-in-interest is unenforceable and/or void because the contract(s) lacked consideration.

TENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Statute of Limitations)

10. The Complaint and each purported claim therein is barred, in whole or in part, by Plaintiff's failure to bring such claims within the governing statute of limitations.

ELEVENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Waiver)

11. The Complaint and each purported claim therein is barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of waiver.

TWELFTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Acquiescence)

12. The Complaint and each purported claim therein is barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of acquiescence.

THIRTEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Judicial Estoppel)

13. The Complaint and each purported claim therein is barred, in whole or in part, by the equitable doctrine of judicial estoppel.

FOURTEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Equitable Estoppel)

14. The Complaint and each purported claim therein is barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of equitable estoppel.

FIFTEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Defendant's Termination Notices Not Invalidated by Technical Errors)

15. Under 17 U.S.C. § 304(c) and 37 C.F.R. § 201.10, Defendant's Termination Notices are not invalidated or curtailed due to technical errors or omissions, if any, since Defendant's intent to terminate all prior grants by Donald L. Heck of his copyright interests in all works listed in the Notices is made clear to Plaintiff in the Termination Notices timely served on Plaintiff.

SIXTEENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

(Against Public Policy)

16. Any contract alleged in the Complaint which is contrary to public policy is unenforceable, and any relief requested in the Complaint which is contrary to public policy should not be granted.

17. The Complaint fails to state the claims for relief with sufficient particularity to permit Defendant to discern and raise all appropriate defenses. Defendant may have additional affirmative defenses available to him, which are not now fully known or of which Defendant is not fully aware. Defendant accordingly reserves the right to amend or supplement this answer with additional affirmative defenses after the same have been ascertained.

FOR THESE REASONS, Defendant prays that the Court dismiss all of Plaintiff's claim(s) and find for Defendant on Plaintiff's Count One, and that Defendant be awarded costs, including reasonable attorneys' fees under Section 505 of the United States Copyright Act, and pray for such other and further relief as this Court deems just and proper.

COUNTERCLAIM

Counterclaimant Keith A. Dettwiler, as Executor of the estate of Donald L. Heck (the "Heck Estate" or "Counterclaimant"), for his Counterclaim against Marvel Characters, Inc. ("MCI" or "Counterclaim-Defendant") alleges as follows:

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. Donald L. Heck ("Don Heck") was a renowned comic book author and artist best known for creating or co-creating characters including but not limited to, "Black Widow," "Iron Man," and "Hawkeye," in various original comic book stories (the "Stories"), published in the 1960s and 1970s by MCI's alleged predecessors. The United States Copyright Act of 1976, 17 U.S.C. §304 (c) ("Section 304(c)"), provides authors such as Don Heck and their estates with the right to recover their fair share of the U.S. copyright to the author's creative work, after a lengthy period, by statutorily terminating without cause prior transfer(s) of copyright within delineated time "windows."

2. On June 4, 2021, June 10, 2021, and July 2, 2021, respectively, the Heck Estate properly availed itself of its termination rights under Section 304(c) by serving MCI and their affiliates, within the prescribed window, with three notices of termination ("Termination Notices”) regarding Don Heck’s author or co-author share of the Stories based on his creative material (the “Heck Material”). The Termination Notices become effective in June 2023 to February 2031. This Counterclaim principally seeks a declaratory judgment that the Heck Estate’s Termination Notices are valid and effective under the Copyright Act.

3. The Supreme Court clearly elucidated the objective of the Copyright Act’s termination provisions:

The principal purpose of the [termination right] was to provide added benefits to authors ... to make the rewards for the creativity of authors more substantial. More particularly, the termination right was expressly intended to relieve authors of the consequences of ill-advised and unremunerative grants that had been made before the author had a fair opportunity to appreciate the true value of his work product. That general purpose is plainly defined in the legislative history and, indeed, is fairly inferable from the text of § 304 itself.

Mills Music, Inc. v. Snyder, 469 U.S. 153, 172-73 (1985).

4. Congress recognized that publishers held far greater bargaining power and that, consequently, authors commonly agreed to one-sided grants, precluding them from sharing in their works’ success. Id. The results were often supremely unfair, as when a work proved to have enduring commercial value but enriched only the publisher. Congress thus created termination rights to “safeguard[] authors against unremunerative transfers” made before their works were commercially exploited, and to give them a second chance to obtain a more equitable portion of their works’ value when it is no longer conjectural. H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 124; see also N.Y. Times v. Tasini, 533 U.S. 483, 496 n.1 (2001) (recognizing Congress’ intent to adjust “the author/publisher balance” by an “inalienable authorial right to revoke a copyright transfer”).

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

5. This is an action for declaratory relief brought under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201, et seq., and under the Copyright Act of 1976, 17 U.S.C. §§ 101, et seq. This Court has federal question subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1338(a).

6. This Court has personal jurisdiction over the Counterclaim-Defendant MCI because MCI is regularly doing business in the State of New York and in this district and maintains contacts within the State of New York and this district.

7. Venue is proper in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b) and (c) and 1400(a), because MCI is conducting business in this district and is subject to personal jurisdiction in this district.

PARTIES

8. Counterclaimant Keith A. Dettwiler is an individual and a citizen of and resides in the State of New York, in the County of Suffolk, and is and at all times has been a citizen of the United States. Counterclaimant is the nephew of Don Heck and the Executor of his estate.

9. Counterclaimant is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that Counterclaim-Defendant MCI is a Delaware corporation, which has its principal place of business in Burbank, California, and which regularly conducts significant business in the State of New York.

10. Counterclaimant is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that the fictitiously named Counterclaim-Defendants captioned hereinabove as Does 1 through 10, inclusive, and each of them, were in some manner responsible or legally liable for the actions, damages, events, transactions, and circumstances alleged herein. The true names and capacities of such fictitiously named Counterclaim-Defendants, whether individual, corporate, associate, or otherwise are presently unknown to Counterclaimant, and Counterclaimant will amend this Counterclaim to assert the true names and capacities of such fictitiously named Counterclaim-Defendants when the same have been ascertained. For convenience, each reference herein to MCI shall also refer to the Doe Counterclaim-Defendants and each of them.

11. Counterclaimant is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that each of the Counterclaim-Defendant and the Doe Counterclaim-Defendants was the agent, partner, servant, employee, or employer of each other, and that at all times herein mentioned, each of the Counterclaim-Defendant and the Doe Counterclaim-Defendants was acting within the course and scope of such employment, partnership and/or agency and that each is jointly and severally responsible for the damages hereinafter alleged.

STATUTORY BACKGROUND

12. The United States Copyright Act of 1976, 17 U.S.C. § 101 et seq. (the “Copyright Act”), provides an author with the inalienable right to recapture the copyright to the author’s creative material, after a lengthy waiting period, by statutorily terminating without cause any prior express or implied transfer of such copyright. Termination is easily carried out by serving advance notice of termination on the original grantee or its successors and filing the notice with the U.S. Copyright Office, within delineated time “windows.” 17 U.S.C. § 304(c).

13. Section 304(c) provides for the termination of a pre-1978 transfer of rights under copyright by the author during a five (5) year period commencing fifty-six (56) years after the date the author’s work first secured a statutory copyright (by registration or publication, whichever is earlier). Id. § 304(c)(3). The requisite notice of termination sets forth the “effective date” of termination, within the five-year termination “window,” when the previously transferred rights under U.S. copyright will be recaptured by the author. Notice of termination may be served by the author, or if the author is deceased, by the author’s statutorily defined heirs or estate, at any time between ten (10) and two (2) years before the effective termination date. Id. § 304(c)(4)(A).

14. True “works made for hire” are the sole exemption from the Copyrights Act’s termination provisions. Id. § 304(c). Whether a work, created and published prior to January 1, 1978, is a “work made for hire,” is determined under and is defined in Section 26 of the 1909 Copyright Act. Pub.L. 60-349.

15. The termination right is the most important authorial right provided by the Copyright Act, short of copyright itself. Congress was therefore very protective of this right and, to that end, enacted a number of provisions to prevent any waiver or encumbrance of an author’s termination interest. For instance, “[t]ermination of the [prior copyright] grant may be effected notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary [.]” Id. § 304(c)(5).

16. Furthermore, “[h]armless errors in a [termination] notice that do not materially affect the adequacy of the information required to serve the purposes of . . . section [304(c)] of title 17, U.S.C. . . . shall not render the notice invalid.” 37 CFR § 201.10 (e)(1).

17. Congress also anticipated that the exercise of an author’s termination right would usually result in a new license by the author or author’s estate to the terminated grantee (here, MCI). To that end, Congress provided that “grantee” with the exclusive opportunity to re-license an author’s recaptured copyright “after the notice or termination has been served,” but before “the effective date of the termination.” 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(6)(D). The termination provisions thus reflect a deliberate balance of competing interests by Congress.

18. Under the termination provisions, all “derivative works” created prior to a termination notice’s effective termination date “may continue to be” distributed and exploited by the grantee or grantee’s successor, just as before. 17 U.S.C. § 304(c)(6)(A). The Heck Estate’s recovery of Don Heck’s author or co-author share of the U.S. copyright to the Stories therefore does not prevent MCI and/or its licensees from continuing to freely exploit prior derivative works, including films, television series and merchandising.

19. In addition, as to the Stories that were co-authored by Don Heck, MCI and/or its licensees can continue to freely exploit such Stories, including in new derivative works, even after the effective termination date(s), subject only to a duty to account to the Heck Estate for an equitable share of proceeds therefrom, and this only in the unlikely event MCI does not enter into a preemptive new license with the estate regarding such works.

20. Lastly, because the Copyright Act has no extra-territorial application, all rights to the Stories in all foreign territories, remain with MCI, notwithstanding the Termination Notices, providing additional incentives for the parties to cooperatively work together in the future.

21. As a result, the Termination Notices, if held effective, will likely result in a new license from the Heck Estate to MCI, but one which more fairly reflects the time-tested market value of Don Heck's creative material. Accordingly, the exercise of statutory termination rights does not prevent the further exploitation of these works by MCI; it simply allows the Heck Estate to fairly participate in the financial benefits of Don Heck's creative efforts, just as Congress intended. H.R. Rep. No. 94-1476, at 124 (1976).

FACTS COMMON TO ALL CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

22. Don Heck is considered one of the great comic book creators, and throughout his career he authored or co-authored numerous original illustrated comic book stories that were published by a variety of different publishers.

Don Heck's Creation of the Stories in 1962-1975

23. Between 1962 and 1975 (the applicable "Period"), Don Heck created or co-created a number of superhero characters, including but not limited to "Black Widow," "Iron Man," and "Hawkeye," in the original illustrated comic book Stories, authored or co-authored by him, which are the subjects of the Heck Estate's Termination Notices.

24. Because "work for hire" is the only exception to the Copyright Act's remedial termination provisions, MCI attempts to rewrite history in asserting that the Heck Material was "work made for hire," owned at inception by MCI's alleged predecessors. This bears no relation, however, to the facts or realities of comic book publishing in the relevant Period.

25. By 1959, comic book publishing was on the brink of bankruptcy, due in large part to criticism in Fredric Wertham's book, "Seduction of the Innocent," the ensuing 1954 hearings before the Senate Subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency, and the resulting censorship imposed by the "Comics Code Authority." Subsequently, the market for comic books underwent a severe contraction which endured well into the 1960s.

26. As such, the purported comic book publishing entities which MCI alleges are its predecessor(s) from the 1960s (individually and collectively, "MCIPP") were largely shell companies, of no resemblance to the structured, established company Marvel is today.

27. In 1962-63, for instance, the MCIPP did not even have their own office and consisted of one alleged employee with a small desk behind a partition in a room occupied by others. By the mid-1960s, the MCIPP had at best a tiny one or two-room office, and very few or no employees (depending on the MCIPP). The impecunious MCIPP fed the printing presses of other entities with inexpensive comic book material purchased for publication from a variety of "freelancers," like Don Heck, working from home on their own steam.

28. The Heck Estate is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that after the Heck Material was purchased by one such entity, it was published by a different entity in varying periodicals (e.g., Tales of Suspense, Vol. 1., Nos. 34-36, 38-40, 42-47, 50-72, and 80; The Avengers, Vol. 1, Nos. 9-15, 17-40, 45, 47, 108-112, 119-121, and 123; The Avengers Annual, Vol. 1, Nos. 1-2; Amazing Spider-Man Annual, Vol. 1, No. 3; The X-Men, Vol. 1, No. 45; Giant-Size Avengers, Vol. 1, No. 4; Strange Tales, Vol. 1, Nos. 101, 103, 105, 140, and 145-148; Iron Man, Vol. 1, Nos. 26-31 and 33-37; and Daredevil, Vol. 1., Nos 103-106, 109, and 118-119).

29. The Heck Estate is further informed and believes and based thereon alleges that the copyrights in these periodicals, containing the Stories, were registered with the United States Copyright Office by and in the name of still different entities (e.g., Vista Publications, Inc., Magazine Management Co., Inc., and Marvel Comics Group). As such, there was little continuity or substance to the use or participation of these revolving entities or MCIPP to support MCI's conclusion that the Heck Material qualified as "work made for hire" under and as defined in the 1909 Copyright Act.

30. Notably, even the MCIPP's contemporaneous copyright registrations by these assorted shell companies did not list or describe their copyrighted periodicals or the Stories therein, as "works made for hire," as was common legal practice for copyright registrations of actual "works for hire."

31. As a freelancer, Don Heck created the Heck Material, used in the Stories he authored or co-authored, largely on his own, and at his own expense. The MCIPP conspicuously never entered into any employment or any other engagement agreement with Don Heck.

32. Don Heck was not employed by any MCIPP, either as a traditional employee or even as an independent contractor.

33. Don Heck was thus not guaranteed a salary, wage, or compensation for his time or services by any MCIPP, which purposefully avoided such legally binding financial obligations. And because the MCIPP had no employment agreement with Don Heck, the MCIPP also had no legal right to control his creation of the Heck Material at his home, on his own time, and at his own expense.

34. The MCIPP, by design, was also under no legal obligation to accept for publication and pay for the material created by Don Heck, or by any other freelancer. Accordingly, like many comic book writers and artists during this time of economic uncertainty, Don Heck worked hand to mouth, at his own premises, using his own instruments and materials, and he thereby bore the entire financial risk of creating the Heck Material in question.

35. Upon completion, Don Heck submitted his material to the MCIPP. If the MCIPP chose, in its sole discretion, to accept it for publication, it purchased the Heck Material by the page. The MCIPP did not pay for submitted pages that it rejected, in its sole discretion, nor did it own such rejected material, underscoring that the nature of this was a purchase, as a matter of law, subsequent to creation, and that the Heck Material was not “work made for hire,” owned at inception by an MCIPP.

36. The Heck Estate is informed and believes and based thereon alleges that accordingly, the back of MCIPP checks issued to buy the Heck Material contained a printed legend, which stated that by endorsement of the check, the payee acknowledges his assignment of the copyright in his material—the legal opposite of a “work for hire.”

37. Once the MCIPP purchased the Heck Material, it, of course, was free to do with it what it pleased, including any alteration or additions thereto, and the copyright registration of the periodicals containing the Stories authored or co-authored by Don Heck.

38. The MCIPP did not assign Don Heck stories to illustrate.

39. Notwithstanding that Don Heck created and plotted his own stories, the MCIPP did not bother to pay him anything for this. Instead, Stan Lee often took the writing credit such that the MCIPP paid him the “writer’s share” of money paid to purchase such freelance stories.

40. Given the above facts and circumstances, the Heck Material was not “work made for hire” for any MCIPP under the 1909 Copyright Act.

Don Heck’s Estate Exercises His Termination Rights under the Copyright Act

41. On June 4, 2021, June 10, 2021, and July 2, 2021, respectively, the Heck Estate served by first class mail, postage prepaid, the Termination Notices, pursuant to the Copyright Act, 17 U.S.C. § 304(c) on MCI and its affiliates, duly terminating all express or implied grants or transfers by Don Heck to the MCIPP of his copyright interest in the Stories. Copies of these Termination Notices are attached hereto as Exhibit “A.”

42. The copyrights to the periodicals containing the Stories were renewed, and such renewals served to renew the copyrights to the constituent Stories.

43. The Termination Notices were drafted and served on MCI and related entities, and submitted to the United States Copyright Office for recordation, all in full compliance with the Copyright Act, 17 U.S.C. § 304(c), and the regulations promulgated thereunder by the Register of Copyrights, 37 C.F.R. § 201.10.

44. The Termination Notices will terminate, on the respective effective termination dates set forth therein, all operative prior grants or transfers by Don Heck to an MCIPP of his copyright interest as an author or co-author of the Stories.

45. On the effective termination dates, the Heck Estate will duly recover ownership of Don Heck’s copyright interest as an author or co-author of the Stories for their extended renewal terms.

COUNT ONE

(Declaratory Relief: Termination Notices Are Valid and Effective Under 17 U.S.C. § 304(c))

46. The Heck Estate re-alleges and incorporates by reference paragraphs 1 through 45 of this Counterclaim inclusive, as though fully set forth herein.

47. By reason of the foregoing facts, an actual and justiciable controversy has arisen and now exists between the parties under federal copyright law, concerning the validity and effect of the Termination Notices.

48. The Heck Estate contends and MCI denies that the Termination Notices are valid and effective under the Copyright Act, 17 U.S.C. § 304(c).

49. Don Heck was never employed by MCI's alleged predecessor(s) as either an employee or as an independent contractor.

50. MCI's alleged predecessor(s) therefore had no legal right to control Don Heck's creation of the Heck Material, and once completed, it had no legal obligation to pay Don Heck for his material unless it was accepted, in its sole discretion, for publication.

51. The Heck Material was therefore not created by Don Heck at the "instance and expense" of MCI's alleged predecessor(s), and instead was purchased subsequent to Don Heck's creation of the material on a freelance basis at his own expense.

52. The Heck Material, comprising his contribution to the Stories, was therefore by no means "work made for hire" under and as defined in Section 26 of the 1909 Copyright Act. Pub.L. 60-349.

53. A declaration of the Court is necessary and appropriate at this time so that the parties may know their respective rights and obligations regarding the Termination Notices and Stories.

54. Accordingly, the Heck Estate seeks pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2201 a declaratory judgment from this Court that its Termination Notices are valid and effective under the Copyright Act.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, the Heck Estate prays for a judgment against MCI as follows:

1. For a declaration that its Termination Notices are valid under the Copyright Act, and as to the parties' rights and obligations regarding the Stories;
2. For reasonable attorney's fees and costs of suit; and
3. For such other and further relief as the Court deems just and equitable.
